GOT THE TIMES TROPHY

G. P. O. Nine Won It From the Navy Yard Team.

REGULAR SLUGGING MATCH

Fielding Honors About Even, but Printers Had the Best of It in the Batting—Buckingham an Easy Mark for Them—Game Called on Account of Darkness.

One of the largest and most enthusiastic crowds of the season witnessed the game yesterday at Capitol Park, in which the Government Printing Office and the Navy Yard teams contested for a silver trophy cup offered by The Times. The exhibition was a good old time slugging match, and although not as close and exciting as it might have been, it was brim full of amusement and it seemed as though that was exactly what the spectators wanted.

The two sides were well matched and in fielding the honors were about even, but in the batting the Printers managed to get the best of it. The Navy Yard aggregation succeeded in rapping the ball for a good many singles, but their opponents got at the upper end of the stick, driving it in every direction for doubles and triples.

Handicapped occupied the box for Manager Andre's people when play was called and in the two innings which he pitched he proved an immense success. Buckingham, the famous East Washington hurler, put in his appearance in the third, and notwithstanding the excellent work that Handicapped had been doing, Andre put "Buck" in to pitch and Handicapped's stand behind the bat.

Here is where he made a great mistake for what the Printing Office great mind to the prevailing young pitcher's curves was a plenty. Buckingham was simply a mark and seven runs brought by four pretty hits were scored in that inning.

In this inning, however, the Navy Yard nine made little difficulty in connecting with the famous East Washington hurler, put in his appearance in the third, and notwithstanding the excellent work that Handicapped had been doing, Andre put "Buck" in to pitch and Handicapped's stand behind the bat.

That counted for little, as the Printers in the next inning jumped onto the ball and smashed it in every direction, "Buck" out of the box. The game then belonged to the G. P. O.'s and they knew it. After that they played things with their opponents and allowed them everything they wished except enough runs to pull out victoriously.

The Navy Yard team scored twice in the half of the fourth and twice more in the same portion of the fifth, but that was all. When the Printers took their stand at the plate in the fifth they went out in one, two, three and four as it was too dark to continue further, the game was called, the score standing 16 to 9 in their favor.

Muttler fielded brilliantly at second base and Capt. Havens, as usual, held up the back end of the battery in great style. Montgomery led the batting with four singles out of four times at the bat. Gates carried off both the fielding and batting honors on the Navy Yard side.

After having received two throw-downs from the Senators on Friday last, the memorable 13th inst., Foutz's failure landed in town yesterday with an "eat 'em up" expression on their faces; and Dave remarked before leaving the hotel that the Senators would be lucky indeed if they succeeded in scoring in either of the two games.

Unfortunately for David, however, the Senators not only scored in both, but succeeded in piling up sixteen large, juicy runs in the first contest, beating out the Bridgegrooms after they had apparently completed the game.

With the score standing 11 to 4 against them, the Senators went in with a determination to win at all hazards, and the way they hammered Foutz's star twirler, Mr. Kennedy, was quite worthy of making that young man wish he were safely back in the City of Churches. It is doubtful if Kennedy has received such a severe drubbing before this season.

SETTLED THE GAME.
The Senators had base hits galore, and in the eighth inning by a Garrison finish settled the game for keeps. The fielding of the Statesmen was very bad in the first part of the game, and very few of the spectators had any idea that they would throw down the Bridgegrooms, but it is not well to base your opinion too much on the Senatorial aggregation, as they are liable to upset them at the most unexpected moment and in a way strikingly original.

And so it was in the first game, for the best the Bridgegrooms could do was to pile up two runs, and as that was just four less than the aggregate total of the Senators, the game went their way. But old man the revenge Dave got in the second. Anderson who has always proven so effective, was sent into the box and the exhibition he gave was enough to cause gray hairs to any enthusiastic rooter.

He simply seemed to have no idea whatever as to where the plate was located, and as he seemed to be in a particularly generous mood, one after another of the visitors was presented with a base. When Varney did manage to get them over Foutz's men simply placed them in all parts of the lot.

HIS WORK OFF COLOR.
Malarky succeeded Anderson in the third inning, but his work was also very much off color, and Gus found it necessary to send his young twirler, Boswell, the man of attitudes, into the box to finish the game. The courtship, while not at his best, gave a little better illustration of the art of pitching than his predecessors and managed to hold the Brooklyn down to a insignificant degree.

His antics in the box, however, were well worth the price of admission, and furnished much amusement to all spectators and players. To sum it all up, the Senators played without a particle of ginger in the last inning, and, added to this, made numerous inexcusable errors. Abbey, who once in a while is a sentimental toad, was in the box for the visitors, and his erstwhile companions seemed to be unable to do anything with his curves, which accounts, in a measure, for the victory. The Brooklyn play here again today.

FIRST GAME.
Griffin was first man up for the Grooms. He hit at Joyce, and the ball went through, Griffin going to second. Shindle then fouled out to Joyce, and Corcoran went out. Joyce to Cartwright, Griffin going to third. La Chance got a base on balls, and later scored, with Griffin, on Anderson's hit to right. Only then struck out.

After Brown had fouled out, Joyce singled to center, and Abbey did likewise, sending Joyce to second, when McGuire cracked the ball home on the right field bleachers for a home run. The Senators were hardly in until they were out, Mercer to La Chance, and Griffin then singled to left and sent Kennedy to second, when Shindle was hit by a pitched ball, and the bases were full. Then Schebeck fumbled Corcoran's hit, allowing Kennedy to score, but La Chance struck out.

The Senators were hardly in until they were out, Mercer to La Chance, and

Brown and Joyce flying out to Griffin and Corcoran.

On coming up again, Anderson, for the visitors, drew a home on balls. Joyce let Daly's hit get away, and Anderson reached second and Daly first. Foutz hit to Mercer, who sent the ball to Joyce to catch Anderson, but Bill dropped it, and there was a man on each base. Tim then hit safely to left for one base, and Anderson and Daly scored, Foutz going to third.

After Kennedy had struck out Griffin hit the ball past Mercer, Schebeck fumbled and Foutz scored, Griffin taking his place on third. Joyce's double hit, then threw wild to second, Grim scored, Griffin going to third and Shindle to second.

Griffin then scored on Corcoran's out, Schebeck to Cartwright, and then La Chance ended things by again striking out. The goodly number of five runs was the product of the inning.

The Senators again fared badly. After Abbey and McGuire had gone out at first, Schebeck dropped a safe one lack of score for a base, but Cartwright hit to Corcoran and Sel, was forced out at second, and the Grooms came to the plate. Anderson singled to right, Daly sent him to third by a single left field, and a moment later he scored by a passed ball by McGuire, Daly going to second.

Foutz fled to Cartwright. Grim bunted safely, sending Daly to third. Griffin then stole second, and Kennedy struck out. Griffin drove the ball to the left field fence for three bases, scoring Daly and Griffin, after which Shindle went out on a line hit to Joyce, but the Grooms had three more runs. They needed them, however, for the Senators did quite well themselves on their own play.

Crooks fled out to Foutz, Schebeck singled to left and Mercer to right, sending Schebeck to third. After Brown had fled out to Anderson, Joyce got four balls and the bases were full. Then Abbey came up. He smashed a hard one at La Chance. It hit the catcher and just in front of the big man, then hit him on the head and bounded over among the right field bleachers.

Four runs were the outcome of this. McGuire came up and reached first, and then Selbach went out, Daly to La Chance.

The Grooms failed to score in their half of the fifth, but the Senators struck out. Crooks, Cartwright and Crooks each drew a base on balls, and then Captain Ed went out trying to steal third, and Schebeck went out, Shindle to La Chance. Crooks, in the meantime going to second. Mercer singled to right field, scoring Crooks. Mercer stole second, Brown got a base on balls, and then Joyce went out to La Chance.

GOT ANOTHER ONE.
In the sixth the Foutz men did nothing for themselves, but the Senators got another one. After Abbey had singled to left center, McGuire and Selbach had gone out on flies to Griffin, Cartwright hit to left for three bases and second Abbey, but died himself, for Crooks fled out to Griffin.

The seventh inning was unproductive to Grooms and Senators alike, and the eighth yielded nothing for the visitors, but the Senators in their part of their inning did in fact lose business.

Joyce hit to the score board and took third base. Abbey singled to center and Joyce ran home. McGuire hit to the score board for three bases and Abbey scored. Corcoran flied out, Selbach's hit and the latter landed safely.

Cartwright placed one safely back of second, and McGuire scored, Selbach going to third, and Captain Ed to second.

Selbach then scored on Crooks' fly out to Griffin, and Cartwright went to third, and the Grooms scored on Crooks' and Selbach's left. Schebeck stole second and scored on Mercer's double to right, but Mercer got out trying to steal third and Brown ended matters by sending a grounder to La Chance.

In the ninth inning the Grooms got one, a home run on a hit by Corcoran into the right field bleacher crowd, and the game was concluded, the score standing: Washington 16, Brooklyn 12.

HIT A BEAUTY.

Foutz took care of Crooks' fly. Schebeck went out at first. Anderson hit a beauty to right field and went out at home in trying to stretch the hit for four bases. No runs.

Foutz got a present of a base. Griffin went out, Malarky to Cartwright. Abbey went out at first. Griffin fled out to Brown. No runs.

Brown was an easy out at first. Joyce took a consolation hit. Abbey hit for three bases, scoring Joyce. Abbey scored on McGuire's high fly. Schebeck flew out to Corcoran. Two runs.

Shindle took first on Crooks' error. Corcoran made a hit and scored with Shindle on a series of sensational plays. LaChance walked and went out at second on an Anderson hit. Daly went out at first. Foutz hit for a single, scoring Anderson. Foutz went out at second on Griffin's hit to Schebeck. Three runs.

Cartwright went out on a fly to LaChance. Crooks bunted safely. Schebeck walked. Daly to Joyce. Boswell's fly. Brown went out on a fly to Shindle. No runs.

Abbey went out at first. Griffin went out, Crooks to Cartwright. Shindle hit for a base. Corcoran walked. LaChance hit for three bases, scoring Shindle and Corcoran. Anderson went out on a fly to Abbey. Two runs.

Joyce went out on a fly to Daly. Abbey made a hit. McGuire flew out to Anderson, who made a great catch. Selbach went out, Daly to LaChance. No runs.

Daly went out at first. Foutz went out, Cartwright to Boswell. Griffin went out on a fly to Joyce. No runs.

Cartwright went out, Abbey to LaChance. Crooks went out at first. Schebeck went out, Corcoran to LaChance. No runs.

TEMPLE CUP PRIZE TRIALS

Rules for the Contest by Presidents Young and Byrne.

SERIES OF SEVEN GAMES

Club Finishing Second in Championship Games May Challenge the Champions—If It Fails to Do So, the Third Club Has the Right—Net Receipts to Go to the Players.

President Young of the National League, and President Byrne of the Brooklyn Club, who were appointed custodians of the Temple Cup, yesterday gave out the following:

"The National League and American Association having, by a majority vote, expressed the opinion that the clubs winning first and second places in the current baseball championship race are entitled to play a series of games for the possession of the Temple Cup, it becomes the duty of the undersigned, in conformity with the power conferred upon them, to make such rules, regulations and conditions as they deem proper governing such series of games."

First.—The club finishing second in the championship series shall have the right to challenge the club winning the championship of the Temple Cup. If the club finishing first fails to accept the challenge, then the third club shall have the right to do so.

Second.—The series shall consist of seven games and no more. The games must be arranged in schedule order by the captains or managers of the contesting teams; three games must be played upon the grounds of the challenged club and three on the grounds of the challenging club (if six games are necessary), and the seventh game (if such must be played to decide the series) on such grounds as may be mutually agreed upon by the two clubs. In case they cannot agree, this committee reserves the right to designate the grounds for the playing of such odd game, and in the event of either club failing to appear at the time and place designated, the club at fault shall forfeit the game. The series shall terminate when either club shall have won four games. The champion club shall have the right, if it so elects, to have the first three games played on its own grounds. All games must be played as scheduled.

Third.—All games are to be played under the rules, regulations and conditions which govern regular championship contests. The umpires are to have the same powers and jurisdiction in the enforcement of discipline and respect for their rulings as are conferred upon them by the playing rules. This to include imposition of fines and exclusion from the game.

Fourth.—Any player using abusive or insulting language to an umpire, either before or after the game, shall be excluded from participation in any future game of the series.

Fifth.—The president of the league shall have the right to appoint and designate three umpires to officiate in the series of games, two of whom shall be assigned by him and act in each game. They shall be paid from the receipts at the conclusion of each game such sums as may be agreed upon between them and the president of the league.

Sixth.—The management or club owners of the grounds upon which the games are to be played are to donate them to the teams free of charge, and it is understood that no club, aside from the players, coaches and their own employees, is to derive any benefit from the games.

Seventh.—No player shall be permitted to participate in any game who has not been under normal contract to the club playing him, at least thirty days prior to September 30.

Eighth.—The entire receipts of all the games are to be the sole property of the players of the contesting clubs. It is understood, however, that from said receipts all expenses are to be paid, to-wit: Ticket sellers, ticket takers and other necessary employees, all other incidental expenses, advertising, etc., and compensation of umpires as referred to in Rule 5.

DIVISION OF RECEIPTS.
Ninth.—Any fine imposed by the umpire on a player during the progress of the game, shall be forwarded to the president of the league by telegram or mail before the next game is played, and a player so fined shall not be eligible to participate in any future game until such time or fines have been paid. The fines, if any shall be imposed, shall be held by the president until the amount levied has been paid, and disposed of as the league may direct.

Tenth.—The net receipts shall be divided between the contesting teams on the basis of 60 per centum to the winning team and 40 per centum to the losing team. The mode of settlement of receipts of the games to be held entirely to the managers of the contesting teams.

Eleventh.—The captains or managers of the teams shall agree on behalf of their players, in writing, to the president of the League that they will be governed by the conditions herein laid down. If the teams are entitled to play for the "Temple Cup" decline to abide by the rules, regulations and conditions made by this committee, or if anything is done which will appear to lower the standard of the games, announcement will immediately be made that any games played will not be for the "Temple Cup" and will not be played under the auspices of the League, and the president will at once cancel all assignments of the appointed umpires.

Amateur Baseball.
The Nationals, of East Washington, will cross bats with the Riverside Athletic Club, of Georgetown, on Thursday, September 20, for the benefit of George Hopkins, manager of the Nationals. It is needless to say that Mr. Hopkins is the most popular person among East Washington baseball cranks at the present time. The rapid progression of the Nationals is due to him, the club having won twenty-one games and losing but three during the entire season. Six hundred tickets have already been sold, and as Mr. Hopkins has many friends in all probability there will be more people at this game than any other amateur game held in the District. This game will also decide the amateur championship of the District.

Nine of the Crew Missing.
London, Sept. 16.—The British ship Harfield, from the Clyde for Table Bay, caught fire at sea and was abandoned. The British brig Inverclyde put up for the Harfield's crew and landed them at Capetown. Nine others of the crew are missing.

Rain at Louisville.
Louisville, Ky., Sept. 16.—Louisville, St. Louis game postponed. Wet grounds. At Pittsburg: Pittsburg vs. Chicago game postponed. Rain.

BUT TWO CHANCES TO WIN

Talent Made to Suffer at the St. Asaph Track.

LONG DELAYS AT THE POST

Annie T., a 40 to 1 Shot, Made a Good Finish in the Fourth Race—Miss Modred Dumped the Speculators.

Spelled by a Tardy Start.

The fact that several of the larger owners have left the outlay tracks did not have any marked effect upon the game at St. Asaph yesterday, and the attendance, betting and racing was just as good as it has been all summer.

The talent had a hard day, as only two favorites landed the money, and one of them was a 1 to 3 shot. The other, Vento, was the best thing of the day, being backed down from 3 to 1 to 4 to 5.

The delays at the post were somewhat longer than usual, and it was almost dark when the last race was run.

TRIALS OF THE STARTER.
Starter Flynn had a hard lot to handle in the fourth race, and it was lacking only five minutes of an hour before he caught them
